

Margaret White
September 27, 1941 to January 4, 2023

Margaret was born in Oakland, grew up in Berkeley and Palo Alto and graduated from Palo Alto High School. She received a BA in psychology at Stanford and spent one year at Stanford Medical School before she decided to become a medical technologist. She trained at San Francisco Children's Hospital and worked at Stanford Hospital. Later when her children were in school, she became a computer programmer and worked for the Washington State Patrol for several years.

She first met her husband Jim in Michigan when she was six years old and her family was visiting the family farm near Ann Arbor. They first dated when Margaret returned to visit the farm in 1960. They were married in 1967 and settled in Tacoma, Washington. They have three children and seven grandchildren.

Margaret's hobbies are genealogy and arts and crafts including wood working, sculpture and origami. They moved to SRC in 2012 and Jim died June 15, 2018.
