

Marjory Marsching
Died: October 7, 2023

Marjory comes to us from Scotland by way of London, where she worked as a nurse, and then in New York City. It was in Manhattan that she met her husband, Ronald, and they married in 1963. He was a NYC native, served in the Marines, attended Princeton University and received a law degree from Harvard. Marjory received a Master's degree in psychology at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut in 1986 and later went back to school to get a law degree at age 65 at Quinnipiac University in Connecticut.

She and her husband have two daughters and five grandchildren. One daughter, who lives in Saratoga, is also a lawyer. The other one is an art professor in Boston. Ronald died in 2001.

Marjory has worked at women's emergency shelters in New York City, helping women file restraining orders and with other legal problems. She loves to go to the movies and to read, and she looks forward to participating in the fitness classes at SRC.
