

Alan Corney    May 13, 1931 to January 12, 2018

Alan was born in New York City and raised in Baltimore, Maryland. He attended Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island, and graduated with a degree in economics and political science. He met his wife Judy while at Brown. They married in 1955 and spent four plus years in New York City where Alan was a buyer for Bloomingdales. He then spent 35 years in the furniture business as a representative for manufacturers in North Carolina. During this time they lived in New Jersey, and for the past 30+ years they spent winters at their condo in Longboat Key, Florida.

They have two children and two grandsons. Alan and Judy enjoyed sailing in the Virgin Islands, and their favorite travels were to Italy and England. Alan enjoyed carpentry and became intrigued with repairing wooden boats after they discovered the boat museum in Cortez, Florida.

As a youth he was an Eagle Scout and held many leadership positions in high school and college. Having a daughter who works at the Stanford Graduate School of Business brought them to California and SRC. Alan enjoys the climate, and sleeping out on the deck when the weather turns windy and rainy.
